Employee Operations Guide

Sample Knowledge Base Document • Version 1.0

Purpose: This guide is a fictional sample document created for demonstrating document upload, PDF indexing, and retrieval-augmented question answering in the NEXUS AI application. It is not a real company policy.

1. Employee Onboarding

New employees should complete onboarding during their first five working days. The onboarding checklist includes setting up their company account, enabling multi-factor authentication (MFA), reviewing the employee handbook, meeting their manager, and completing required security awareness training.

The employee's manager is responsible for explaining role expectations, introducing key teammates, and identifying initial training needs. Employees should contact the People Operations team if they have questions about onboarding paperwork.

2. Working Hours and Attendance

The standard sample office schedule is Monday to Friday, 9:30 AM to 5:30 PM, with a one-hour lunch break. Teams may agree on different schedules when business needs require it. Employees should notify their manager as early as possible if they expect to arrive late or miss work.

For remote meetings, employees should join on time, keep their calendar availability updated, and share an agenda when a meeting requires preparation.

3. Work-from-Home Guidelines

Eligible employees may work from home up to two days per week with prior manager approval. Employees should remain reachable during agreed working hours, protect confidential information, and use approved company systems for work.

Public Wi-Fi should be avoided for sensitive work unless an approved secure connection is used. Employees should lock their screens when stepping away and ensure that household members or other unauthorized people cannot access company devices or documents.

4. Leave and Absence Requests

For planned leave, employees should submit a request at least five working days in advance. Managers review requests based on team coverage and business requirements. In an emergency, employees should notify their manager as soon as reasonably possible; the manager may approve an urgent request according to the circumstances.

Employees should check the official handbook or contact People Operations for the applicable leave balance, holidays, and any rules not covered in this sample guide.

5. Cybersecurity and Data Protection

Multi-factor authentication is required for company accounts. Passwords must never be shared with colleagues or sent through chat or email. Use unique passwords and approved password management tools where available.

Employees must report suspected phishing, unexpected login alerts, lost devices, or accidental exposure of confidential information to the IT/security team immediately. Do not forward suspicious attachments to coworkers or attempt to investigate a potential incident independently.

Company data should be stored only in approved locations. Access should be limited to people who need the information for their work. Before sharing a file externally, confirm that the recipient is authorized and that the sharing method is approved.

6. Learning and Professional Development

The sample annual learning budget is INR 15,000 per employee for approved courses or certifications. Employees should obtain manager approval before making a purchase and follow the company's expense reimbursement process.

A learning request should include the course or certification name, provider, cost, expected completion date, and a short explanation of how the learning supports the employee's role.

7. Equipment and IT Support

Company equipment should be used responsibly and kept secure. Employees should install software only through approved processes and should not disable security controls. Technical issues should be reported to IT support with a short description, the affected device or application, and any error message that can safely be shared.

When an employee changes roles or leaves the company, their manager and IT support should coordinate the return of company equipment and the adjustment or removal of system access.

Document Notes

This guide is intentionally separate from the NEXUS AI Employee Handbook. When testing the application, ask questions that refer specifically to this document and verify that the answer includes the correct source filename and page citation. If company documents conflict, the application should not assume which policy takes precedence unless an authoritative source says so.
